Write a paragraph about the month of July.

Handwriting practice lines consisting of solid top and bottom lines with a dashed middle line. There are eight sets of these lines for writing a paragraph.

The Fourth of July

Every year, on July fourth, Americans celebrate Independence Day. It is a fun day for many families because many people have barbecues in their backyards on this day. They invite family and friends over. Often people dress in red, white, and blue. Hot dogs are a popular food to eat on July fourth. At night, there are many fireworks shows that light up the sky.

1. What do Americans celebrate every year?

2. When do they celebrate Independence day?

3. Why is it a fun day for many families?

4. Where do people have barbecues?

5. Who do they invite over?

The Rainy Day

On Friday, May 7th, 2013, the rain woke up Kaily. She had a sleepless night because the rain was so strong. She peeked outside but could barely see anything. The sun wasn't out, and the rain was falling fast from the sky. Lightening made the sky bright. When the thunder rang, she knew it was going to be a very rainy day.

"Do I have to go to school today?" she asked her mom. Her mom looked out and saw the blackness of the sky. "Yes, you do. But I will take you." Her mom said. Kaily put her rainboots and jacket on. She braided her hair and brushed her teeth. "We won't get to play today" she was thought as she stepped out into the wetness to get into the car. Suddenly, she saw a ray of light. The sun was coming out!

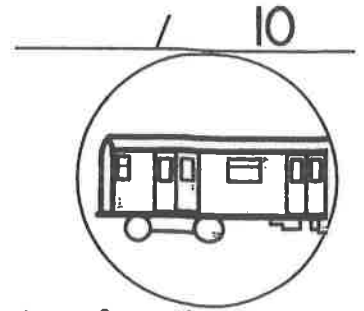

1. What did Kaily put on for school? <input type="radio"/> Rainboots and hat <input type="radio"/> Rainboots and jacket <input type="radio"/> Rainboots and glasses	2. What made the sky bright while it was raining? <input type="radio"/> thunder <input type="radio"/> lightening <input type="radio"/> sun
3. Why could Kaily barely see? <input type="radio"/> It was raining <input type="radio"/> It was night <input type="radio"/> She didn't have her glasses	4. Why did Kaily have a sleepless night? <input type="radio"/> The rain was strong. <input type="radio"/> The sky was black. <input type="radio"/> Her sister was crying.

5. Why did Kaily say they wouldn't get to play?

Train Station

Train stations are all over the Nation. You can get tickets to ride a train from the ticket booth. When a train stops at a station, people can get off and on the train. At big train stations, goods are put onto trains. Then, the train goes to another station and the goods are taken off.

Today, big trains run on oil. Each section of a train is called a car. The front of the train is the locomotion. The back is the caboose. All the train cars are joined together. The locomotion pulls the train along the track. Where train tracks cross is called a rail junction. There is a set of points that turns the train to another way.

Some people love trains so much that they have toy models of trains! They set them up to look just like trains driving around towns. Little boys and girls also have toy trains. Trains are cool!

1. Where can you get a train ticket? <input type="radio"/> From the driver <input type="radio"/> When you drive too fast <input type="radio"/> At the ticket booth	2. What do trains run on today? <input type="radio"/> oil <input type="radio"/> coal <input type="radio"/> water
